

Global Trends of Online Teaching & Learning

Friday, February 7, 2014 10:00~18:10

Makuhari International Training Center, Reception Hall Nagisa

English and Japanese

(Japanese-English simultaneous translations will be provided)

Overview

Though online teaching and learning has been around for a few decades outside of Japan, Japan has not yet ridden the wave of online teaching and learning. However, recently interest in online teaching and learning has begun to rise even in Japan due to the worldwide boom of MOOCs (i.e., Massive Open Online Courses). Some people say that this boom is ephemeral and the interest will soon dissipate. What are MOOCs bringing to the scenes of higher education? What styles of online teaching and learning are becoming the mainstream? What kinds of transformation will be required for higher education institutions? This symposium will invite five notable speakers in the field of online teaching and learning and discuss its trends.

PAGE UP

Program

報告書 Symposium Report 全文ダウンロード Full Download
(PDFファイル、約1.83MB、112ページ)

Chair: Kumiko Aoki, Professor, The Open University of Japan

10:00- 10:10	Opening Remark	Katsuhiko Shirai, Chancellor, The Open University of Japan Foundation
10:10- 11:10	Speech 1 (Keynote)	MOOCs: What Will Be Their Legacy? Sir John Daniel (Education Master, Beijing DeTao Masters Academy / (Former Vice-Chancellor, the Open University, UK))
11:10- 12:10	Speech 2	Open and Distance eLearning: A New Culture of Teaching and Learning in the Digitized World Grace Alfonso (Chancellor, University of the Philippines Open University)
12:10-	Lunch Break	(Please prepare your own lunch.)

13:30
13:30-14:30	Speech 3	MOOCs in Japan --Is There Any Good Goal-- Yoichi Okabe (President, The Open University of Japan)
14:30-14:40	Break
14:40-15:40	Speech 4	The Business of Free Learning Andrew Law (The Director of Open Media, The Open University, UK)
15:40-15:50	Break
15:50-16:50	Speech 5	Mobile Learning: Global Trends and Implications for Authentic Learning Jan Herrington (Professor, Murdoch University)
16:50-17:00	Break
17:00-18:00	Panel Discussion	Chair: Kumiko Aoki, Professor, The Open University of Japan
18:00-18:10	Closing Remark	Makiko Miwa, Chair of International Committee, The Open University of Japan
18:20-	Reception	Reception fee is required

PAGE UP

Copyright © 2014 The Open University of Japan. All rights reserved.